

Fact Sheet:

Community Regional Medical Center

Background

Community Regional Medical Center is the flagship of Community Medical Centers' four acute-care facilities, with an average daily census of 541 patients. The four facilities under Community Regional's license see a combined total of 728 inpatients a day.

It began in 1897 with Celia Burnett, proprietor of a successful boarding house at the southeast corner of Fulton and Calaveras streets in Fresno. She joined forces with Fresno physicians to form a private hospital called the Burnett Sanitarium.

Today, this academic-affiliated medical center is located on a 58-acre campus in downtown Fresno. With a full-service, 56,000-square-foot emergency department – one of the largest in California – it's home to the Table Mountain Rancheria Trauma Center and Leon S. Peters Burn Center, the region's only comprehensive burn and Level 1 Trauma Center.

The campus features the Deran Koligian Ambulatory Care Center, a 79,534-square-foot facility partnered with Family Health Care Network to provide care for asthma, dental, diabetes, eye, family and adult practice, HIV/AIDS care, internal medicine, and women and children's clinics. The Prompt Care Center for adults and children with minor illnesses or injuries is also open seven days a week.

The Community Regional campus expanded in 2018 with the completion of the five-story North Medical Plaza, which includes the new home for outpatient dialysis, Leon S. Peters Outpatient Rehabilitation Center (CORC) and the Pediatric Specialty Center. A new seven-story, 1,400-stall employee parking garage also completed the same year.

Across from Community Regional is Terry's House, a 17,000-square-foot, two-story home that provides a supportive residence for families while their loved ones receive critical care in the hospital.
