

FACT SHEET

Interpretation Services

FISCAL YEAR 2022
REVISED 3/15/23

The Need

Community Medical Centers serves a diverse patient population of San Joaquin Valley residents who speak more than 100 different languages and come from a variety of cultural backgrounds. Many are immigrants from countries with different approaches to medical care. Nearly 17% of Community Regional Medical Center's emergency department patients are non-English speaking, which means hundreds of interpreter interactions a day are needed with patients and their families. Community is not reimbursed for these services.

For patients, having a care team member who speaks their language gives a sense of comfort and maintains dignity. Patients' language needs are identified during pre-operative appointments and phone calls, when they register at a facility or are admitted to the hospital. Also, referring primary care physicians are asked to provide information on the language needs of patients. Non-English speaking hospital patients wear an orange wristband listing their primary language.

Interpreter Services for Patients

Interpreter services are provided at Community facilities 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Community relies on certified in-house interpreters, interpreters from the Health Care Interpreter Network (HCIN), American Sign Language (ASL) services and the Language Line, which has 3,000 interpreters and 170 available languages.

Employees called "Courtesy Language Resources" volunteer to help patients and families with non-medical-related questions in their native language. Bilingual employees wear a special employee badge to indicate to patients and visitors which additional language they speak and can assist with interpreting. Languages spoken by these employees include Spanish, Hindi, Hmong, Punjabi, Farsi, Vietnamese and Filipino.

In 2009, Community Regional took another important step to enhance the quality of patient services by joining HCIN, a cooperative of California hospitals and healthcare providers who share trained healthcare interpreters through an automated video/telephonic call center system.

Videoconferencing devices and telephones throughout each hospital connect, often within a minute, to an interpreter on the HCIN system, either at Community Regional or one of the other participating hospitals. VTech interpreting phones and IOW (Interpreter on Wheels) are available 24/7 for all languages including ASL.

Community Regional has eight full-time Spanish interpreters, three limited hour Spanish interpreters, one full-time Hmong and Lao interpreter, and one full-time Hindi/Punjabi interpreter. They are available over the shared HCIN and in-person interpretation sessions.

Interpreting services also offer in-house translation services and translation of documents in Spanish and English.
