Background

Community Regional Medical Center is the flagship of Community Medical Centers' four inpatient hospitals, with an average daily census of 625 patients. The four facilities under Community Regional's license see a combined total of 806 inpatients a day.

It began in 1897 with Celia Burnett, proprietor of a successful boarding house at the southeast corner of Fulton and Calaveras streets in Fresno. She joined forces with Fresno physicians to form a private hospital called the Burnett Sanitarium.

Today, this academic-affiliated medical center is located on a 58-acre campus in downtown Fresno offering advanced specialty services not found elsewhere in the region. With a full-service, 56,000-square-foot emergency department – one of the largest in California – it's home to the Table Mountain Rancheria Trauma Center and Leon S. Peters Burn Center, the region's only comprehensive burn and Level I trauma centers. On average, Community Regional receives more than 730 requests a month for patients from other Valley hospitals to be transferred to our hospital for a higher level of care.

The campus features the Deran Koligian Ambulatory Care Center, a 79,534-square-foot facility partnered with Family Health Care Network to provide care for asthma, dental, diabetes, eye, family and adult practice, HIV/AIDS care, internal medicine, and women and children's clinics. The Prompt Care Center for adults and children with minor illnesses or injuries is also open seven days a week.

The Community Regional campus expanded in 2018 with the completion of the 5-story North Medical Plaza, which today houses outpatient dialysis, Community Outpatient Rehabilitation Center (CORC) and the Pediatric Specialty Center. A seven-story, 1,400-stall employee parking garage also was completed the same year.

Across from Community Regional is Terry's House, a 17,000-square-foot, 2-story home that provides a supportive residence for families while their loved ones receive critical care in the hospital.
